

Raku Ho'olaule'a 2023

An exhibition featuring a juried selection of raku ceramics, fired on the beach

On View April 7-29
Opening Reception April 7, 6 pm - 8 pm

Downtown Art Center, Studio C
1041 Nu'uuanu Ave, Honolulu

Image:
Rochelle
Lum

Founded in 1977, Raku Ho'olaule'a (a celebration of raku) brings together ceramic artists to participate in raku and related firing techniques at a campout which is held in a beautiful beach setting on the North Shore of O'ahu. The exhibition is juried by renowned raku artists Ramon Camarillo (contemporary category) and Bob McWilliams (traditional category).

Community Kiln April 8, 10 am - 2 pm

Try raku! You can glaze ceramic tea bowls under the direction of Hawai'i Craftsmen members, see them fired using the raku process, and take your finished tea bowls home that day.

Find us in front of The ARTS at Marks during the HEART of Honolulu Art Street Festival.

$15 per bowl, includes blank tea bowl, glaze, and raku firing. Allow 2-3 hours to complete the process.

For more information visit www.HawaiiCraftsmen.org, or email us at info@HawaiiCraftsmen.org.

Raku Ho'olaule'a is supported by a generous grant from the Susan Rogers-Aregger Memorial Collage & Clay Foundation, and the Island Insurance Foundation